... After All These Years

Once again South Side High School opened its doors to another year, with each year beginning a new way of learning. The faces that passed through the halls of our school may all have been different, but the hearts and thoughts of each person were the same as the students who passed through these doors in 1922. Although each was just one of approximately 20,000 students that have entered South Side, we were different; we added our unique personalities and experiences to South Side's history. Through the many years that South has offered itself to students, the tvy-covered building has remained a vision of the strength and virtue that the students and faculty have put into South.

Ivy Day this year marked the forty third that this Senior tradition has been upheld.

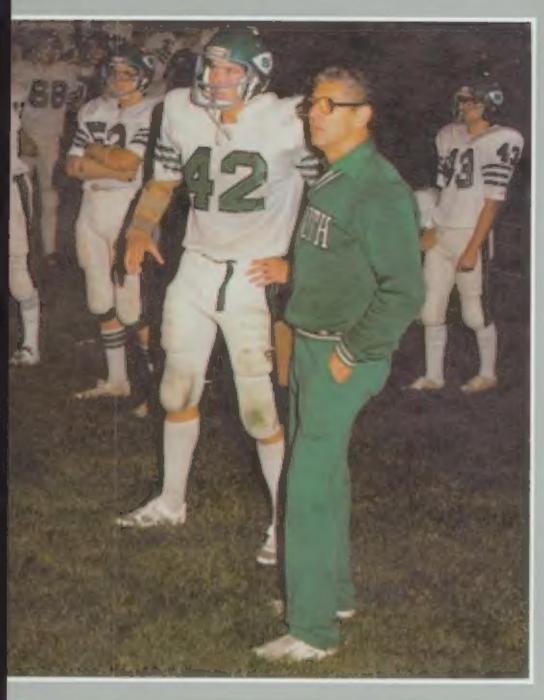

The seniors, all dressed in caps and gowns, knew the next time they would be assembled together as a class would be the afternoon of graduation.

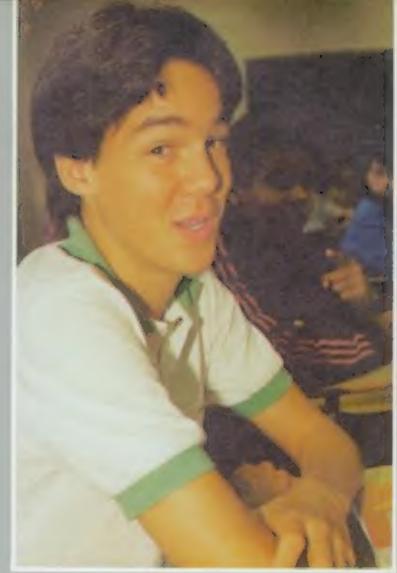

We maintained the respectable reputation of South Side by turning out the largest number of area high school students to help in the flood effort. As always the students' devotion, determination, and passion for the betterment and assistance of their friends, people in need, and the community were displayed.

In sports, as in previous years, to athletes of South Side gave us greezen to be proud of our scholouth defeated North Side, enable us to retain the Totem Pole which won last year. And the boys' tenteam left its mark in the year of '82 becoming the conference champion

Although this may be just anothyear in the history of South Side. It is a unique and separate year to set apart from all others. We haproven ourselves worthy. We are a here, still strong, still proud ... af all these years.

Interstate Hallways

"Hey, kid, whatcha waitin' for? Hurry up!" This is something one might hear while walking the halls of South Side from Hoover or maybe a teacher.

During the five-minute passing periods, many things happen in the halls. More often than not, this can be the most hectic part of one's day ... especially getting through the English hall. The English hall is always crammed with people! Trying to get out of an English class and into the hall is also impossible.

A common sight one might see in the halls are various types of decorations. For the most part, these include spirit posters, or posters announcing upcoming activities. Hungry? There are at least three or four people selling M & M's or candy bars.

But many times, this is where friends stop and talk to each other. They tell each other the latest gossip, make plans for the upcoming evening, or tell them about having too much homework. It surely would be interesting to know what everyone said, if the walls only had ears! Friends whisper secrets, tell jokes and stories while passing classes.

The halls are filled with different types of people, things, and happenings. At times, it might not be the most pleasant part of one's day, but at least it gives students a chance to see their friends and forget their problems for five minutes.

Ivy Day Tradition Survives

There are many schools in Fort Wayne, each one different and alike in many ways. But our school, South Side, has special qualities of its own. For instance, the ivy that inches its way up the sides of our building stands for a very important part of our school. It not only beautifies the walls but symbolizes the years that have passed, because for the past 42 years, the senior class has planted one sprig of ivy as its good-bye to the school.

Annually since the first ceremony long ago, there has been an Ivy Day Parade. Every year in the spring, the seniors are paraded in their caps and gown along Calhoun and Oakdele. Heading the parade are the South Side Marching Band, the Ivy Queen, and her court.

The specialness of the event couldn't be dampened, even by the weather. Even though the storms continued outside, the Class of 1982 still had its special day. For one of the few times in the history of Ivy Day, the gowned seniors, the Ivy Queen and court, and the band marched inside, through the gymnasium while the rest of the school watched.

Dr. Bill Anthis was presented with a vine of ivy by Matt Wildermuth. Greg Watkins was orator, master of ceremonies was Bill Slyby, and Tim Manges crowned Tammy Mendez Ivy Queen. The seniors of 1982 then sang the Alma Mater to end last year's ceremony. The Senior Chass officers were then given the honor of planting another year's sprig of ivy for the walls of South Side. Not only did they take part in a tradition unique to our school, but they added a small part of themselves to the walls of South Side.

We Saved Our City

Fort Wayne is the city that saved itself In March of 1982, in the worst flood since 1913, the rivers swelled out of their banks and rose into the city, destroying homes and businesses as it inched its way higher. One-third of Fort Wayne's population of 173,000 fought the rising waters by sandbagging. Two-thirds of these were teenagers. President Reagan even helped throw sandbags

Creeping in the lives of many, the flood forced thousands of people to flee their homes. Some stayed with friends or family, while others had no place to go and were put in emergency shelters at Trimity has appropriately and Precious file od Sohor

Mayor Moses called for teenagers to help fight the flood and they arrived in large numbers. Many from South Side signed out for the day and went to help with sandbagging. It was the teenagers who saved the city, and they restored the city's faith in the youth

As we fought the swirling, muddy waters, an entire world watched Fort Wayne became a major story in newspapers around the globe. Paul Harvey spoke in Fort Wayne with a note of encouragement. Ann Landers dedicated a column to "the vouths that saved a city." We even made the Johnny Carson Show

But all this attention was not just for fun and games. Damage was estimated at 218 million dollars. Homes were damaged beyond repair Businesses lost their inventory Clean-up began with volunteers from all over. The mayor of Berne sent Berne high school students to Fort Wayne to help with the long process

The rivers have receded now, and lives are getting back to normal. This is the city that can do anything

Lots Of Spirit South's Tradition

What is green and white and heard all over? South, ande spirit This spirit can be seen as well as heard at many different. South Sufe functions. It is evident that the Archers are proud of their school and are willing to show their spirit at athletic events, pepralbes, and every day activiti.

Spirit weeks give the Archer students a chance to have fun as they support their teams. Punk Rock Day Lick-em Day, Dress-up Day College-No-Sweat-Day, and the amous Crazy Green and White Day are some of the favorites.

With the help of the cheerleaders, the spirit of the student body is aroused. This spirit inspires the competitors, instilling confidence and pride in representing their school.

Nothing can satisfy an Archer more than a rowdy and exciting sports event. The enthusiasm of the crowd is carried by the athletes into the competition. Everyone en victory but the Archers never let a loss affect their pride. Over the past year, Archer spirit has dominated when the Archers won the Totem Pole for the second year in a row from North Side High School Another time, the spirit of the Archers was a major factor in gaining a hard-fought victory over Snider High School as the Archers went on to become the SAC tennis tournament champions.

Whether it is the attitude one takes, the clothes one wears, or the cheers one yells, spirit is a necessary asset in keeping. South. Side's tradition of excellence.

Experience Gained On The Job

A majority of South Side's students hold down part-time jobs after school and on weekends. These jobs provide the money needed for Archers to attend various events throughout the week and on weekends. To some of the students, their job helps to relieve some of the expenses of college

Our city offers a wide variety of jobs for high school students. Some of these jobs include working for restaurants like McDonalds and Pizza Hut, grocery stores like Rogers and Krogers, gas stations, and clothing stores. Some Archers even have the opportunity of working outdoors

Not only are students earning money, but they are also learning what it takes to be responsible enough to hold down a job. This opportunity to learn is a great experience for young people. It helps a student learn how to handle responsibility and how to handle money Knowing these will be a big help for future reference. Above all, the most important factor of having a part-time job is learning to work with and deal with all different kinds of people Dealing with the kinds of people we do not know is a task that can only be learned through "on the job" experience

As "freed" students escape the halls of South Side, their minus are tilled with expectations of their upcoming summer. Thoughts of angebra-English, and history are quickly exabanged for those of soap operas, sunbathing, and excitement.

Each Archer has his own atea of summer; yet all have the same thought of three months without teachers and homework.

Some Archers have jobs to earn money for spending and for their while others pass their summers in relaxation.

Some Archers also participated in summer sports such as swimming, tennis, and golf, while others went to

Various summer events take place throughout the city, one of the Three Rivers Festival in July During this festival, many Archers could be found watching fireworks, raft races, and local bands

A True Friendship

The school day begins and ends. Day to day is a struggle with exams, homework and classes. But there is something that keeps a person going There is more to school than just the everyday routine

South is filled with a variety of people and personalities. Here anyone can find a friend. Without a joke, a smile, and a bit of laughter shared with a friend, it would be difficult to make it through the long days

But a friend isn't all fun and games. A friend is someone whom you can count on when you really need him there, when things don't go just right Hours on the phone, endless evenings spent together, and countless secrets are all involved in a friendship

Whether it be one close relationship or many special friends, it is here that one finds smiles andw teers, joy, and pain. Imagine school without a giggle among friends, a note passing around the classroom, or someone holding hands. School just wouldn't be the same without all of these. At McDonalds, Pizza Hut, the movies, Links, or Electric Circus, one seldom sees an Archer alone. "Traveling in groups" is always more fun, as can be seen on a weekend night. "I almost live with my friends," said Libby Leal, junior, There's no one else I'd rather spend my time with, but I guess that's why they're my friends!" Her thoughts may be the same as many other Archers'

So look beside you. There you will find a friend. Though high school can't last forever, there is one thing that can. A true friendship never ends, no matter how long the years become

Hard Work Pays Off

Seniors and underclassmen sported their Sunday best for one of the few Sundays spent at school Whether each individual student was receiving an award or not, many South Side students and their parents attended the 1982 Recognition ceremony

Recognition Day is a time spent rewarding well-deserving students in areas in which the recipients prove to be outstanding

Theresa Jewett, senior, accepted the award for Valedictorian of the South Side 1982 class. Robert Toy, senior, shared in the honors as he received the Salutatorian award

Eleven senior students were named South Side Scholars by Mr. Jack Weicker, principal. Patricia Clark, Curt Inman, Tammy LaRue, Tim Manges, Jenny Marquart, Brian Mast, Tammy Mandez, Natalie Nunez, Tom Osha, Susan Stephen, and Jeff Trammel earned a threeyear average of 95 percent or better

The top underclassmen were awarded honors for their individual academic achievements. These students were John Gevers, junior, Kathleen Clark, sophomore, and Ernest Stalnaker, freshman

After closing with the Alma Mater, the hard-working students departed Many left filled with ambition because of the support they had been given. Clark commented, "All the hard work seems a little more worth it after I've walked across the stage to receive my award."

A 'Summer Breeze'

Over the years the annual Afro-American Club Talent Shows have gained a reputation for excellence, and the 1982 production was no exception. The show, entitled "Summer Breeze," loosely followed the story line of "Grease." Rocky Thompson, senior, and Bonita Johnson, junior, played the leading roles of Danny and Sandy

Auditions for spots began in December From the final cuts in February until the actual production, nearly three months later, the carefully chosen cast members rehearsed for hours daily in order to perfect their routines of song, dance, and modeling

In the end, however, all agreed the long hours of preparation were worth it. The long hours made the show a huge success, with the sell out audience as well as the participants

As Tonya King, junior, a model in the talent show, said in her own words, "We worked on everything, our posture, our walk, our stance but it was worth it. Besides being fun and exciting, it was a very challenging experience. I really enjoyed it, and I'm looking forward to next year!"

Some of the money-making activities for the 1982-1983 school year are skating parties, sales of various types, dances, and the annual South Side Talent Revue.

The sponsor of the Afro-American Club is Mrs. Barbara Davis, who is doing a wonderful job of bringing the club back up to its potential since the departure of the club's previous sponsor, Miss Ella Jones.

Some of the group's major plans for the year included going to other schools for chess meets and an allschool tournament later on in the year. CAMPUS LIFE

Every Monday evening at 7.13

Campus Life gets together at a member's home for discussions

Games are played, songs are sung stories are told, and feelings are expressed

Once a month an Insight meeting takes place. Members dig deeper into the areas of family friends, sex, true love, and God. The sharing that is involved is a real uplifting of the spirit Everyone is accepted, and everyone strives towards understanding life's problems and solving them. Together the members manage to work things out

Getting away from it all is another thing Campus Life people enjoy doing. There is an all-night rollerthon for those who enjoy wheels and a ski weekend for those who prefer the snow. Florida is probably the most looked-forward-to vacation, as far as Campus Lifers feel.

Campus Life is new friends, someone to talk to, some place to be crazy and be serious. In this world with so little to spare, students enjoy spending time on Monday nights at Campus Life meetings.

Spectacular Seniors Display Talents

"Are we gonna do it with his underwear on or off?" ... "Not a lot, but I grew a foot!" ... "I got a new dress!"

Such were the remarks uttered by various actors throughout this year's senior class play, "Where the Lilies Bloom."

The play, presented on November 19 and 20, tells the story of four orphaned children and their struggle to survive through the hard and depressed times of the 1930's. "I chose this particular play not only because I liked the heroic qualities of Mary Call's character, but I also felt that the South Side students could identify with the economic conditions of that time period," commented Mrs. Susan Wygant, director

The first scene opened as Mary Call Luther (Stephanni Beets) and Romey Luther (Mike Gemmer) were secretly burying their dead father, Roy Luther. From that point on, Mary Call is left to shoulder the responsibilities of her remaining family: Romey, Devola (Jenny Seeger) and Ima Dean (Patti Leamon). Together they try to hide their secret and keep Kiser Pease (Eric Anderson) and Goldie Pease (Eve Lyte) from taking the Luther house and land away from them

The students actors and stage crew members involved in the play put their lives aside for five weeks in order to prepare themselves for the final performances. "The practices were very time-consuming and boring at times," admitted Patti Leamon, senior, "but I really enjoyed doing it It was a good experience."

Tutors Share Time, Skills With Others

Twenty-five South Side students ranging from freshmen to seniors, took time off from their busy schedules to tutor young children at various area elementary schools, as well as the Lau students here at South Side

The Tutors, sponsored by Mr Dan Boylan, English teacher, taught just about any subject. All teaching took place during after-school hours

The job of a tutor is by no means easy. In fact, it can be very demanding. However, all involved agree the rewards are just as real as the difficulties. Sheila Skelly, senior, describes the feeling experience when a child grasps a new skil.

Art Club Officers Chance To Excel

When art class ends, where can a student find classmates with the same artistic interests? Many South Side students have discovered that the Art Club answers this question

Though a small club, members claim that getting together with other artists helps them to feel more creative. "Being in Art Club is really fun. It's nice to get together with friends and show off our work." stated Tom Kolkman, "We do a lot of really funny and creative things when we get together."

At the weekly meeting, Mr Albert Jacquay leads the Archers in the building of primitive instruments, devising new ways to create and work with clay, and to just take the time to relax with friends

Giving an opportunity to students to express their ability to create with originality, the Art Club is surely a club for gifted students

Student Council More Active

South Side's 1982-83 Student Council was one of the most active student government bodies in many years. Under the supervision of sponsor Mr. Robert Gernand, the members of Student Council really strove to make improvements throughout the school and to organize numerous social events that were enjoyed by all South Side students

The officers were John Colvin, president; Mike Gemmer, vice-president; Heather Duemling, treasurer; and Paul Lehman, secretary; all seniors. "Our main goal this year was to get Student Council to work for the student body and not just a select group of people," commented Colvin

Student Council also acted as a bridge of communication between the student body and the school administration. Brad Fenner, senior, was the chairman of the Administration Communications Committee. "I feel the cooperation put forth by the school administration was extremely beneficial in our efforts of running Student Council. I do not feel the office ever hindered a project of ours during the year," said Fenner

The first benefit granted by the administration was permission to hone meeting a month during school day. This meeting, open of to class representatives and although a large turnout estimates, drew a large turnout estimanth. "By having meetings durithe school day, Student Council vable to accomplish more projects, more effective and do more than strictly a social club. We had an tive group of Archers who wanted see Student Council achieve all goals. That was our success," sta Colvin

War Games Grows

One of the newer clubs at South Side is the War Games Club

In just its second year of existence as a club at South, the War Games organization boasted a total membership of nearly 15 students

The first love of the club, decided unanimously by all members, is the ever popular "Dungeons and Dragons Game," known as D and D by these avid fans. They also indulged in such games as "Traveler" and also the most favored by the club, "Man, Myth, and Monsters."

As interesting as the games played by the club are some of the costumes periodically worn by its members to the meetings. Consisting mostly of leather and metal, their outfits resemble those worn by the ancient Vikings. The War Games Club looks as if its strong following should help it prosper and grow in its continued existing years at South Side. Club member Bill Dreifke, junior, commented, "Last year we had a tough start, but this year we've really got the club rolling."

The Science Club began its fourth ar at South Side with a small inease in membership. Under the rection of Mrs. Kenlynn Stickler, e club also expanded the variety of e experiments worked on after hool. The group spent a lot of time eparing, examining, and dissecting ganisms. These experiments were extension and addition to poratory work not offered in the gular science classes. Many Good 'Times'

The Times staff works feverishly week after week throughout the year to uphold its obligation to the students of South Side. South Side's newspaper, The Times, is published weekly for those who subscribe

Mondays and Fridays were her to days for the Times staff as the staff members hurriedly tried to finish the paper in time for their weekly deadlines

Stories were written and rewritten in order to obtain the perfection needed for publication

John Gevers, senior, and Laura Feidler, senior, were editors-in-chief for the first and second semesters respectively. Their responsibilities included headlining and copyreading stories and seeing that articles were ready to send to the printer each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday

Other first-semester editorships included Ann Belbutoski, features Leah Hackleman, sports, and Andy Hufford news

Fogether this staff shared the often frustrating job of creating a paper each week. New ideas for stories and editorials had to be created and different types of writing techniques used.

No One 'Totem' It Would Be Easy

It is once again a late Sunday might. This story as well as several others is being vigorously typed and headlined in order to make the deadline Laughter, sounds of anguish, and the rhythm of the typewriters can be heard throughout the room. Last-minute captions, copy, and headlines are being formed in the minds of the 1983 Totem staff.

Writing and rewriting, the staff becomes frustrated at times, but it all looks forward to the finished product. The Totem staff consisted of writers photographers, and editors, with the editor-in-chief being Karen Gemmer senior, and the associate editor. Shelly Davis, junior. Both Gemmer and Davis attended journalism institute at Indiana. University to gain a better understanding of how to put together a yearbook and to develop some new ideas for the Totem.

When asked to comment on the Totem, Gemmer replied, "... er, um

" She had no time to reply. The job of editor-in-chief was more demanding than the other editorships. Many nights were spent sleeplessly in order to meet deadlines, and the drawing of layouts was an endless job. When the staff ran into problems Miss Anne White, the Totem adviser, was sure to offer suggestions and assistance. The Totem is something that South Side students have to remind them of their Archer days. It holds pictures and stories of everything that high school is made of. To the few on the Foteni staff, it also holds fond or not-so-frind memories of long hours of work and endless deadlines. These memories along with sore fingers from typing will always remain with them, along with the words, "It's lost" It's lost"."

C.O.E. On The Job

Cooperative office Education seems to be the way to go for those people interested in the ways of business

C.O.E. is a class through which a student can receive on-the-job training in a business atmosphere

The Office Education Association is a club in which the student may go downtown and participate in businesses and work in them for three hours every weekday. A student must also have one hour of a realted class a South Side to participate in the club

As there gets to be an increased emphasis on education and a good background, opportunities such as C.O.E. become more vital to high school students. Students who go through the C.O.E. class learn these skills well and how to apply them. After graduation these young adults will be more qualified than their less-fortunate counterparts; and, when job-hunting they will inevitably find the task much easier

'It's reassuring to know that I've got the skills and that I'm prepared,' commented one C.O.E. student

Math Department Educates

Webster defines mathematics as

"The science of numbers and sets and their operations, relations, and combinations and of space configurations and their structure, measurement, and transformation." As complicated as that sounds, one would expect a math course to be somewhat baffling. Many find this true but fail to verify it by geometric proof. Many students, however, find math interesting and, yes, sometimes enjoyable

With the world advancing in technology by leaps and bounds, math is becoming more necessary for the student wanting to succeed in life Perhaps the strongest area of the Math Department at South Side is the three-year Advanced Math Program including calculus at the senior level. The courses offered by this program allow accelerated students to receive more detailed learning, some at the college level.

The course that grew most in popularity was the computer math class. Computer math offered students a chance to become acquainted with and master the machines that are becoming more and more a part of everyday life

Foreign Languages

"Hola!" "Bonjour!" "Guten tag!"
"And salve!" When walking down the foreign language hall of South Side, one can hear any of these four
"hellos" coming from the doorways.

Headed by Miss Lois Holtmeyer, South Side's Foreign Language Departments offers 16 different courses that a student can take during his four years at South. The department offers first through fourth year in all these languages: Latin, German, French, and Spanish. Next year, for those talented enough, fifth year foreign language classes will be offered.

The majority of the foreign languages at South had after-school clubs thus year. Meetings took place, officers elected, and fun times had by all. Many times special foods were prepared and "cultural experiences" were shared.

The department stresses the importance of the cultures of the countries where the languages are spoken; and, of course the obvious aspect is the study of the spoken language itself.

Most of all, foreign languages give students the opportunity to be creative. From weekly and daily class discussions to written compositions and translations, students of South Side learned to express themselves in different languages.

The Industrial Arts Department taught many students an applicable talent that they could use in a trade upon graduation. Of these students a majority pursue careers in a related field. They find this background that have received through these various classes extremely useful to them

The industrial arts students in the past have benefited greatly from the fine job the instructors, department head, Mr. Charlie Kuntz, Mr. James Tarr, and Mr. William Walker have done in teaching them these helpful skills

Giving Color Life

The 1982-83 art classes were designed to exercise and advance students in the different fields of art. Taught by department head Mr Frank Roberts, and Mr. Albert Jacquay, the art classes delved into such fields of art as drawing, ceramics, sculpturing, wood carving, painting, photography, and many of the other aspects of art.

Classes were divided into five basic categories. Basic skills and use of materials were taught in the beginning art classes. Those classes introduced students to the field of art

The intermediate classes put to use the skills learned in the beginning class. Some projects assigned were similar, though more advanced than the beginning projects. Advanced classes were for students wishing to continue in art and improve their skills and techniques, new fields of art were introduced and explored in advanced art classes.

The independent art class was open only to students who had completed the required art classes and wished to continue, on their own, in the field of art. Students in this class were required to assign their own projects, set their own deadlines and evaluate themselves accordingly. Students in this class worked with ideas and materials that may not have been stressed in regular art classes.

The photography classes, taught by Roberts, stressed in regular developing of film, and photographic techniques.

Strings: A Hard Challenge Met

Anyone who has ever heard a professional orchestra perform knows how beautiful the sound of stringed instruments can be. Here at South Side a class is offered for those who enjoy playing stringed instruments and wish to improve their abilities as well as perform in concerts for their fellow students

Although a stringed instrument is a very difficult one to master, the orchestra handled the challenge very well. This year South Side was treated to three different concerts as well as a number of music assemblies which featured these fine musicians.

The beautiful music created by the orchestra is made possible only by the hard work and determination of the members

Mr. Robert Drummond, Music Department head, commented, "In many ways, we have made good progress this year. Hopefully by the time of the May concert, we'll have reached our peak

Choir Expands

One sector of the Music Department commonly overlooked is the vocal section. South had two choirs this year, the concert choir and the varsity choir

The concert choir, under the direction of Mr. Robert Drummond, department head, consisted of predominantly upperclassmen. Mr David Streeter directed the varsity choir, consisting largely of freshmen

In choir, many different styles were explored. The selections ranged from classical to pop and folk to Broadway tunes. All were worked to perfection before they were performed for any audience

Performances were mainly in the forms of Music Department concerts Occasionally, the choirs were asked to perform for a special function in both the school and community

Although not exposed much, South had two very fine choirs that eagerly invited everyone to listen in on the fine music

As most of us know, it takes a great deal of pride and determination to make a sports team work. Unfortunately, many people do not realize that it takes the same pride and determination to make a marching band work. This year, the Marching Green Machine of South Side proved that it possessed these qualities

For the 160 students who comprised the band, their year started early One week after summer vacation began was the first time the band practiced. These practices continued throughout the rest of the summer During one week in August, band camp took place at South Side from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day of the week During band camp, everyone's efforts were concentrated on the construction and perfection of the contest show that would be performed at the ISSMA contest. This was the show that was also performed at halftime during all of the home football games

Under the direction of Mr. David Streeter and his staff, the Marchina Green Machine received a score of 69.55 at the ISSMA contest. A score of 70.0 was needed to go on to state competition. "It was a heartbreaking score," stated many band members

After the marching season is over the members of the marching band form the pep band. The pep band plays at the home basketball games Roger Davis, senior, stated, "Playing in the pep band gives you the chance to perform for people without having to worry about their judging your performance."

United, Powerful

It came down to hard work, cooperation, practicing, and rebuilding, as South Side's girls' track team fought to regain its old status as the state's dominant track team

"Our goal was rebuilding," said Cathey Tyree, junior. "That goal held us together."

All the practice showed in their performances. They took fourth at both the Northrop Invitational and the sectionals. They proceeded to polish that performance, and finished second at regionals. The girls ended up in a respectable seventh at state.

"We still need lots of work," said one team member, "but now we are a team. We work together, and it's fun. And because we get along so well and now know ourselves better, we're going to do better. Wait until you see us next year!"

Coach Roberta Widmann feels that the rebuilding is reflected in the six wins, five losses record for the spring of 1982. But she'll be back there fighting alongside the team, as the girls continue to make their hard work pay off.

As a sports writer for the Fort Wayne Newspapers said when writing of South Side's girls' track team, "It's not the quantity that counts; it's the quality."

Better 'Times' Ahead

Determination, dedication, and pure Archer pride were again the dominant factors that stood behind the 1981-82 track team.

To prepare for a highly competitive spring season, these Archer men started their training shortly after Christmas under the superior coaching staff of Mr. William Walker and Mr Walter Bartkiewicz

As the season opened, high expectations were had by all for another victorious track team. The winning of the prestigious Richmond relays was a positive sign that the Archers were off to a great start.

Coach Bartkiewicz, who constantly stresses the importance of "mental toughness and clean living" in an athlete, trained the field events men Coach Walker put his efforts toward the sprinters. Former student and athlete Jose Mendez assisted the distance squad.

It was an up-and-down season for the team, as Coach Walker comments: "We figured we'd be no worse than the top five in the state toward the end of the season. But, due to various factors, we didn't end up there!"

Those Archers that made it to regionals were Robert Davis and Michael Paul, seniors. Their events were the long jump and the shot put, respectively.

Rodney Thompson, senior, went to the state meet in the long jump. For the second year in a row, Ga Stewart, senior, went to state in the high jump.

The team members voted Bland Harper, senior, the Most Valuab Player in the running events. Rodn-Thompson, senior, was awarded the Most Valuable Player in the first events. The Outstandin Underclassman Award was given David Osterman, sophomore.

Archers' Webb

Improving their skill and gaining victories, the Archer girls' tennis team finished the 1982 season with a record of 4-10.

The girls' new coach, J. Webb Horton, assistant pro at Wildwood Racquet Club, helped the team members with their technique and their attitudes.

Horton feels that the three most important factors of having a good team are pride, consistency, and dedication.

Through these three ideas, the girls' tennis team was strengthened both on the varsity and reserve levels

New to the girls this year, the varsity team consisted of three singles players and two doubles teams.

Playing number one singles was

Maria Christen, senior; number two singles, Margy Nold, junior; number three singles. Debbie Fogel, sophomore; number one doubles, Jane Graf and Sharon Maier, seniors; and number two doubles, Jennifer Graham and Becky Schaab, sophomores.

The reserve team consisted of Beth Keller and Karen Cronkhite, seniors; Sally Cavell and Francina Tuesca, juniors; Libby Leal, Joy Lohse, Debbie Bennett, Lynelle Brisette, sophomores; Kristie Malott and Peggy Newton, freshmen.

Even with the loss of four senior players, the Archer team looked to 1983 as a season of new potential and further improvement.

Improvement Shown

South Side's golf team has been improving slowly but surely for the last three years, with the team reversing its SAC record of 6-12 in 1981 to 12-6 in 1982. The team's 17-8 overall finish was the best in years. Coach Richard Melton attributed the improvement to the fact that "we virtually had the same team back. When you lose only one varsity player, you know you're going to be tough." Though the team finished eighth in sectionals, Matt Didler, senior, played well enough to be forced into a playoff for a trip to regionals. The sudden-death playoff lasted five holes, with the Archer team following the action. It ended on the slippery Brookwood Golf Course greens when Matt took one too many putts

The season was wrapped up at the Spring Sports Banquet with awards going to the golfers on the varsity team. Gold pins were awarded to Matt Didier, Senior, and Scott Hell. junior. Silver pins went to John Didier, junior, and Pete Gemmer, sophomore, and Rich Diester, junior, received a varsity letter and a bronze pin for participation on the varsity

Those who contributed to the reserve action of the golf team were Todd Anderson, sophomore, George Baldus, freshman, Brian Parker, freshman, and Rich Miller, senior

Baseball Strong In Finish

The baseball team of 1982 was cited by Coach Dean Doerffler as "a good team, which had a real strong finish." The team finished the season with a record of 5-4 in the Summit Athletic Conference. One of the highlights of the season was the doubleheader against DeKalb. South Side won, being one of few teams to ever upset DeKalb in a doubleheader, a rated team at the time of the game. Also, the team did a tremendous job in sectional playoffs, losing to Dwenger in the last inning of the game, with a close score, 4-3. "A very disappointing defeat," commented

Doerffler

Outstanding members of the team were Keith Varketta and Shannon Stanfield, seniors. Both members of the team were voted, by their teammates, as Most Valuable Players Varketta received All-City team by a unanimous decision. He set school records for the best batting average and he hit more home runs than any other player in the history of South Side baseball. Stanfield was shortstop for the team, and represented the team on the mound with a 5-1 pitching average. The team noted Bob Schloss, senior, Most Valuable

Pride Sustains Archers

Before the season had ever begun, many people were predicting that South Side's football team would have a winless season. The reason for this was the Archers' lack of size, depth, and experience. However, under the leadership of head coach, Frank Houk, and his assistant coaches Bartkiewicz, Fireoved, and Nichols, the Archers pulled themselves together to form a true team. The football team motto, "It's not me, It's We," was continually stressed throughout the season.

Another vital element of the South Side football team was the extremely high pride factor it upheld for itself as well as for the school it represented. The Archers' seasonal record finished at 4-6, while their Summit Athletic Conference play stood at 3-4. Quarterback Ken Christie, senior, finished second in SAC passing with a total of 1,008 yards.

As for rushing, tailback Darryn Nichols, junior, finished fifth in the city with a total of 824 yards. Mark Sander, senior, as tackle, continued to crush opposing players for his third consecutive starting season.

injuries also plagued the Archers throughout the season. Brian Nierman, senior, was sidelined for a major portion of the year because of a severe ankle injury. Another problem that South had to face was the fact that many of the varsity players had to start on both offense and defense.

Tight end Joe Billingsley, senior, felt, "South had a great team this season despite the record. We all played with positive attitudes and no one ever gave up. The North Side game proves that."

Cross Country Has Positive Season

Running, running, and more running—this was the schedule our cross country men followed since early August

Under the experienced direction of first-year coach Dan Auer, this Archer team had a successful season.

The practices that prepare these men to endure the painful race varied from day to day. Oftentimes, a run of five to seven miles preceded a spring work-out on the track. Weight training was also included in their work-outs.

Is it possible to like a man that puts you through pain, torture, and agony in practice? To this question Carl Sinninger answered, "Coach Auer is a really good coach. He made us work hard, but it was for our own good."

The Archers placed eighth in the sectional meet, and were three places short from advancing to the regionals

Only four lettermen returned for the 1982 season. They were David Mendez, sophomore, Jun Stockman, junior, and seniors Jim Christie and Cliff Epple.

Paul Lehman commented, "Our season wasn't the best, but it wasn't the worst either. Everyone tried hard, and that's what counts! We had a lot of good times. I'm proud to have been a member of the Archer cross country team!"

Team Young, Gifted

The girls' cross country team leaped into a rebuilding season this year with an underclass squad, composed primarily of freshmen and sophomores. They had only five returning letter winners from the previous year

Even though the team did not win a meet all year, Mrs. Roberta Widmann, coach of the girls' cross country team, said the following about the team, "As a young team, they were always improving. Each race they tried harder and attained better times and place finishes."

Team captain Peggy Ott, junior, was also pleased with the way the season progressed, "But next season will be even better."

The returning cross country runners for the year included Ott, Sue

Berry, and Michelle Smith, all juniors; and Julie Auld and Amy Daley, sophomores. New runners for the season included Benita Brewer, sophomore; Joy Nielsen, Roxanne Johnson, and Anita Mendez, freshmen

Coach Widmann felt that her team lived up to its potential. A school record was even set in the thousandmeter run. Anita Mendez ran it in 11.58

'Several of our best runners were out for one or two races this season due to injuries," stated Coach Widmann. As closing comment on the year she stated, "Overall, they gave fine performances at every meet. I was very pleased with their hard work and dedication."

The 1982 Volleyball season was one of advancements mixed with frustrations. The record this year's team accumulated was better than almost any other in South Side's history.

Progress was made in areas such as offensive quickness and team unity. Mental intensity caused a few point breaks for the Archer squad

The volleyball team was headcoached by Miss Deb Cook. This was her first year as head coach for South. Miss Cook's locker room tactics helped the girls think only of volleyball before a match.

Miss Cook's assistant was Miss Tinda Zimmerman This was Miss Zimmerman's first year, yet her enthusiasm about the game was a coaching aid for her inexperienced players.

The tremendous home-crowd support the 1982 volleyball team received has never been equaled. The roar of the crowd echoed in the close games this squad played. The team as preciated this following

"We thrived on the crowd's cheer:
It made all the dives and sprawl worth it stated one member of the varsity squad

No team tromped this squad. The caused much frustration for the volleyball team because repeatedly was heaten by two-point margins.

The year ended with a first round sectional loss in an extremel close game pitted against the Snido Panthers Even though the season end ed in a loss, enough progress was madwith the team and coaches' efforts that the 1982 volleyball squad was success.

Next year there will be five out o eight girls returning to the varsity squad. The three seniors co-captain were Both Hofmann, Cathey Tyres and Ellen Arnold. This was a year to be proud of on the court

Varsity Ranked In State

In one of the most bitter rivalries in the state, the Archers boy's varsity basketball team defeated the fourthranked Marion Giants. 61-60, at South Side on December 18. It was one of the most exciting games played in South Side's gymnasium in years When the final buzzer sounded. Archer fans exploded onto the court celebrating a long-awaited victory over the Giants.

The win over Marion was just the start of a long stretch in which South won 11 of 12 games, interrupted only by a loss to Elmhurst in overtime

In that stretch of victories, South Side fans watched the Archers bring home the Holiday Tournament trophy for the third time in four years.

In Goach Terry Flynn's second season at the helm, he had only four seniors to work with. They included Steve Jackson, Alex Tatum, Charles Moore, and Mike Sollberger

Jackson led the SAC in scoring by averaging over 20 points per game. He was a second-year starter and team co-captain. Tatum was South's most improved player and had good quickness. He usually guarded the opponents' quickest player.

Moore was the Archers' floor leader and team co-captain. He was also a second-year starter. He leaves South Side holding a school record when he connected on 18 straight free throws his junior year

Sollberger was the backup center who came in and helped in a number of games. He was propably the shortest center in town but a good athlete. Sollberger was a two-sport letterman

The juniors on the team were Ed Starks and Charles Rowland. Starks was the starting forward and second leading scorer on the team, while Rowland came in at guard for his defensive and ballhandling abilities.

The 1982-83 boys' reserve basketball team was led through an impressive season by Coach Craig Taylor. The team was predominantly sophomore, with a few juniors. Although lacking in height, the team made up for this deficiency with quickness and good fundamentals, which helped make the year a success

The starting line-up had a few minor changes, but through a majority of the games, the same boys made up the front line. Rod Scott and Ron Keller were guards, Gent Montgomery and Cressie Fowlkes were forwards, and Joe Slick was starting center

Charlie Wemhoff, junior, stated that "for a sophomore-dominated team, we showed great improvement throughout the year; but overall I would say our season was a great success."

Varsity Coach Terry Flynn looks forward to receiving the quality and potential of this young team for varsity performance in the years to follow

The freshman basketball team, coached by jeff Lee, was a well-balanced team, using every player in every game. And, with the advantage of using his bench, Lee was able to substitute freely to keep a fresh squad in at all times

Lee went mostly with Mark Barnfield, Tim Sheppard, Tracy Jackson, Greg Peoples, and Javon Wright as his starting five, although this line-up did vary from game to game. And with strong off-the-bench performances by Donald Clark, Eddie Anderson, and LaBronz Davis, the Archers were able to defeat nine out of their area opponents

It was an exceptionally fast team and players used their quickness also as an advantage to chalk up many steals that assisted in many fast-break layups

This year's girls' varsity basketball team was coached by newcomer Dan Auer. Taking over the spot of Mrs. Roberta Widmann, Auer led the girls to the runner-up position in sectionals this year. The team posted an 8-8 record season. 5-4 in the SAC The team's record was enough to capture fourth place in the SAC tournament

Cathey Tyree, senior and captain of the squad, stated, "The basketball team was made up of young players this year. At times it got very frustrating, but the younger players became more alert and experienced as the season progressed. The team was great to work with, and I am going to miss them

This year's team was indeed a young one. Of the eight girls on the team, only two were seniors. Other members included three sophomores, one junior, and two freshmen

The reserve team of the 1982-83 season was coached by Miss Lori Johnson. Consisting of seven freshmen, the reserve team's record was 2-7

The team following these essentials began its season in mid-October and finished up in February

South Side had a very young team, primarily made up of freshmen and sophomore wrestlers. Team captains Jordan Lebamoff and John (Lightning) Miller, juniors, made up the backbone of the Archer squad while they led the rest of South's wrestlers through a tough and demanding season

Highlights of the South : wrestling season consisted of the formances of the team capt Miller won the SAC title at 145 while Lebamoff topped off his sea with a fourth-place semi-state final

Coach Howard Savage assisted this year by South Saraduate, Stacey Tribolet. Work together, coaches and wrestlers together the needed essentials developed a strong and proper team, sure to return even more of thy to hold the title as South Savages.

SAC Title Retained

South Side, led by the experience of four returning lettermen, retained the S.A.C. title for the second straight year. The four returning lettermen were Brad Fenner, senior, numberone singles player and team captain; John Colvin, senior, number-two singles player; Doug Rowe, senior, number-three singles player, and Chris Miller, junior

For the first time in the history of the South Side tennis team, a rigorous pre-season training program consisting of two practices averaging five hours a day was undertaken. Before the actual matches began, Coach Rick Hanauer established many goals, one of which was to repeat history and win the S.A.C. title.

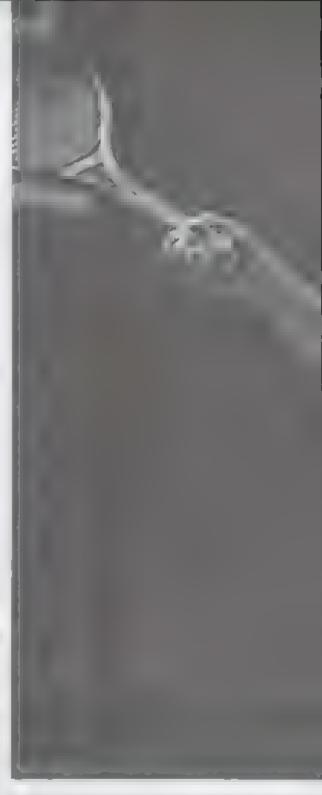

"I feel we possessed some of the best talent we've had for quite some time. We had a great deal of experience, and most of our players knew what to do in pressure situations," commented Hanauer

This fact was proved as first-year players Ted DeBrine, senior, and Dan Bromley, junior, teamed up at number-two doubles to fight off darkness and grasp the victorious point to defeat the undefeated Snider Panthers to win the city championship.

Hanauer commented about the team, "Miller and Joe Deitche, freshman, (11-4) starting at first doubles had a prosperous season. Doug Rowe (13-2) probably had the best serve and volley combination in the S.A.C. John Colvin (13-2) using great stamina usually wore down his opponents. Fenner, undefeated in the S.A.C., was able to advance to Concordia after the team's sectional loss. Overall we had a good varsity season, backed by a strong and dedicated reserve squad."

South Cheerleading Fun and 'Games'

"We've-got-spirit! S P I R I T spirit!" Eighteen South Side Archers in particular show their spirit throughout the year in various ways. These Archers are the cheerleaders. Cheerleading includes many different activities that all support the Archer teams.

Tryouts for cheerleading are held in early May with the selection of six girls per squad. The selection is based on voice projection, coordination, originality, and how well a girl can represent South Side. A senior girl is also chosen to be the mascot. This year Leah Hackelman was the Archer. This spot includes not only cheering but also doing gymnastics.

Much practice is needed before school ever begins. This starts with two practices a week during the summer months. At the end of August the varsity squad competed at the Indiana State Fair

Once school begins, the cheerleaders are kept busy supporting the various sports' teams and trying to raise spirit throughout South Side. This is done through spirit days and pep sessions. These activities give Archers the chance to back their athletes throughout the year.

"Cheerleading is a lot of hard work, but the satisfaction of supporting the athletes makes it well worth it," says captain Ellen Arnold, senior

A lot of time and dedication are definitely what the cheerleaders put into cheerleading. All of the student body and athletes appreciate their work

Changing World

The world is always in a state of change. High school changes us by preparing us for the real world. And, just as we are changing, the world around us is changing as well

In the school year 1982-83, we saw many deaths and tragedies. In Russia, Leonid Brezhnez, Soviet leader, dien of a heart attack at the age of 75 Henry Fonda died at the age of 77 after receiving an Academy award for On Golden Pond. Karen Carpenter, of the Carpenters, died as a result of anorexia nervosa. Seven people died after taking cyanide-laced Tylenol in Illinois

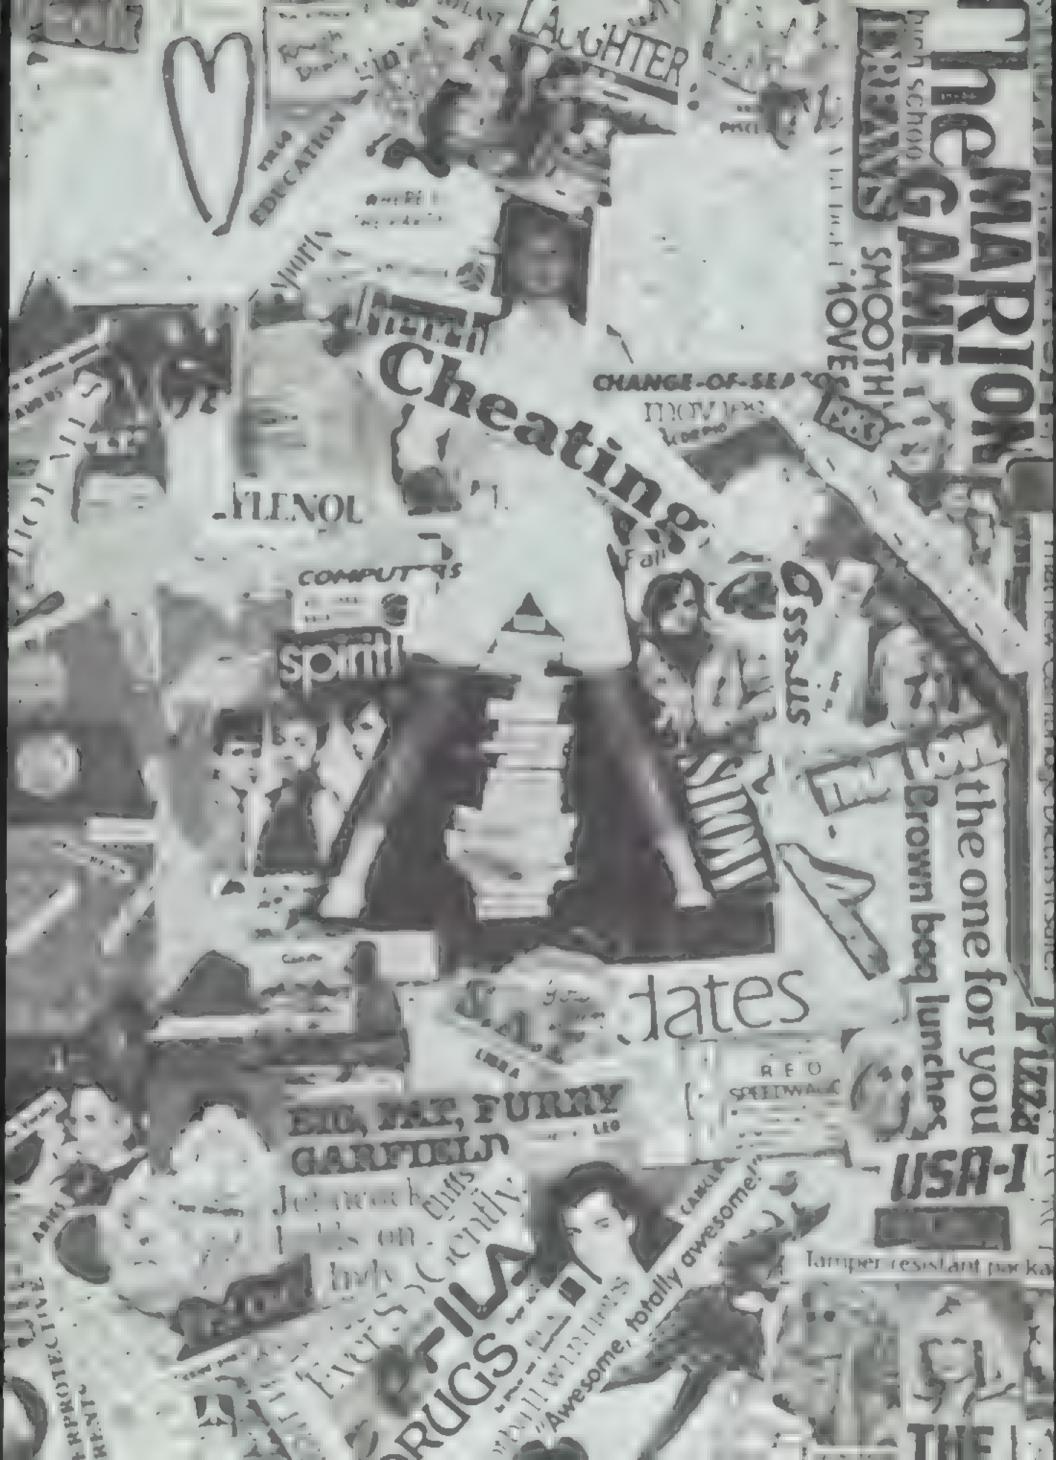

As the world turned, problems were brought up and dealt with. The pornography issue came into the foreground in Fort Wayne as Citizens for Decency began picketing the porn shops. Cuts in social security were debated in Congress. Sales tax in Indiana rose to five percent. Richard Lugar and Dan Coats were elected as senator and congressman to Washington

This was a year of new beginnings Princess Diana gave birth to a son Prince William Arthur Philip Louis President Reagan made a trip to Latin America and promised better relations with our neighbors to the South The 1982 World's Fair was in Knoxville, Tennessee. Southtown Mall opened a new addition with over 50 stores

Prep was still a popular movement, but new wave and GQ clothing styles gradually crept in. Groups such as Devo, Human League, and Men at Work made their way into the charts Kraftwerk, a German new wave group, began recording in English Football players went on strike and the Redskins won the Superbowl The Cardinals won the World Series E.T. was a successful movie and spawned many E.T. products, ranging from E.T. t-shirts to E.T. napkins.

Overall, it was a year of change throughout the world. We in high school watched carefully, knowing that we would soon be entering this world and becoming the leaders of tomorrow

Caring, Encouraging Administration

"To risk rather than just ride the wave of complacency, to continue to learn rather than just rest on previous knowledge, and above all to create a positive, caring environment." This is the reply given by Mr. Thomas Gordon, guidance coordinator and freshman counselor, when asked for his goals for the South Side administration

Above all, he stated, it is important to remember that the one and only purpose of the administrative staff is to facilitate the purpose of school, education

The South Side administration is headed by Mr. Jack E Weicker, principal; Mr. Ralph Boling is assistant to the principal.

The Guidance Department, headed by Gordon, consists of Mrs. Frances Gooden, sophomore counselor and assistant athletic director; Miss Jennifer Manth, junior counselor, and Mrs. Jeanette Rohleder, senior counselor

The importance of the counseling staff is always having willingness to help a student, whether one has a problem in scheduling, needs information for college, or just wishes to discuss something important

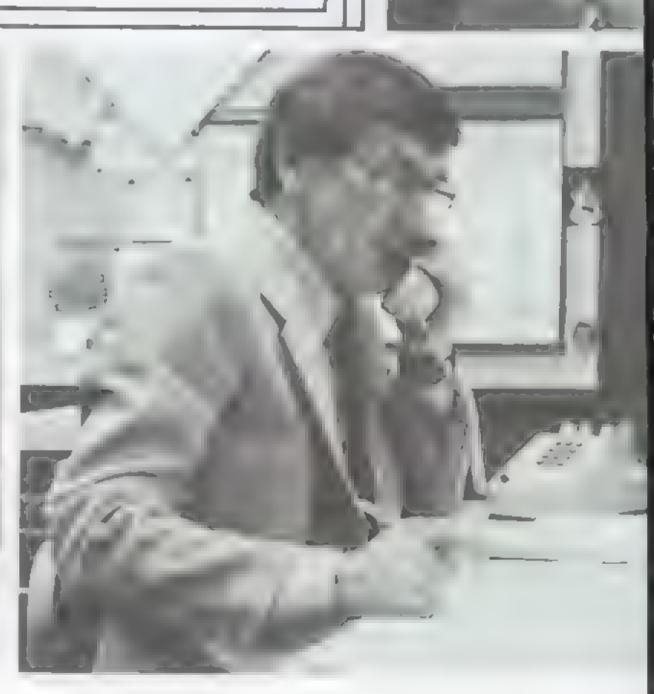

The administration is rounded out by Athletic Director Pres Brown, Mr Richard Block, the assistant principal, and Miss Dorothy Walters, assistant to the principal.

In general, these people do their job in order to guarantee that South Side is a place students can enjoy being while they learn

Teaching Students, Molding Futures

Throughout it's history, South Side has had teachers who care about their students as well as their school

This care has been shown through the sponsorship of nearly every extracurricular activity that takes place at South Side. Though this sponsorship means constantly being available for these activities, our teachers are there

The teachers at South Side also care about expanding their relationship with students. This is the reason that one will often see faculty members talking with students in the halls or giving them extra help on any problem students might bring to them

The teachers at the head of departments take an added responsibility

making sure that everything is in order. The people heading their respective departments are Mr Richard Sage, math; Mr. William Hedges, social studies; Miss Lois Holtmeyer, foreigh language; Mrs Jane Langdon, English; Mr. Gery Goodman, work study; Mr. David Griggs, science; Mrs. Juanita Mendenhall, home economics; Mr. Glen Stebing, physical education, Mr. Charlie Kuntz, industrial arts Mr. Leon Dolby, business; and Mr Robert Drummond, music

These people, along with the entire staff, have done a great job again this year, and we're sure they will continue to help throughout the years to come

There May Be Tears, But Smiles Describe Our Seniors' Year

The Class of 1983 finally made it to the top. Although we were first looked upon as 'babies," being the first freshman class revived at South Sale, we quickly adjusted and used that extra year here to become a class with a strong bend of fellowship and unity. We had an extra year to get the real feeling of being an Archer

A true sense of lovalty was born in this class as we cheered on one another's accomplishments and helped each other through our rough times. We all wanted our class to excel We maintained through our unity a respect for one another's individuality.

This last year was a time to appreciate all the friends we had made, "Semontis" took hold quickly, and we had as much fun as we could because we knew our departure was near. It was a year for special memories of our last football game, our last Green and White Day, our last Homecoming, and our last Prom Before we knew it, the Sentor Play and Sentor Banquet were here and gone.

and Ivy Day slipped by, too

We prepared to leave South Side confident that we will leave a positive impression. We will continue to leave good marks as we go our separate ways in the world to fulfill our dreams, for it was here that our dreams began. We have the strength, the knowledge, and the confidence to become all that we wish to become, and we are proud to be the Class of 1983 at South Side High School

Over 45 members of the team participated in the events of boys' and girls' extemp, duo, impromptu, drama, humor, oratorical interpretation, original oratory, radio, poetry, and discussion

After reaching a meet, the Archers' time was divided between going to rounds and waiting for the posting of their scores for each round. Then around 3.00 pm. everyone flocked into the awards ceremony to find out how each had placed

One Step Closer

Having made it to its third year, the junior class was much more confident in itself as a verified group of Archers. No one could deny the right of the juniors to wear green and white proudly.

Their enthusiasm came on strong as they arose to cheer during each pep session and game.

One aspect of jumor life was the "dreaded" term paper required of many junior students. Juniors also found time to participate in such social clubs as Hi-Y and Philo, which are two clubs open only to juniors and seniors

The junior year is a busy one as those students fortunate enough to have jobs readjust their schedules order to find the time for homewor athletics, and fun.

Although as the years go of students find that more is expected a them, they also find that they gain the privileges which go along with the responsibilities.

The prom provides an exceller conclusion to each junior year. A juniors were able to participate in the planning of it, many will never forgethe experience of the prom

Looking ahead to 1984, the junior will continue to grow together as the return to South Side for their finyear in high school, seniors at last.

Junior Officers Set Goals

Representing the Junior Class, Dave Osterman, treasurer, Jordan Lebamoff, president, Patty Panyard, secretary, and Dan Bromley, vice-president (left) worked on ideas and provided fund-raising activities throughout the year. Mr. Earl Weinert and Mr. Ronald Fecher also helped the class by sponsoring the junior officers.

Lebamoff said, "Our main goal for the year is to get the class ready for their senior year. I feel we are already a very united class; so now we, as officers, want to concentrate on raising money in order to be prepared for our senior year."

Sophs Cross Bridge

The class of 1985 is well on its way, having successfully made it through half the high school years. As sophomores, they were the babies of the school no longer. They found greater expectations were held for them at the same time that they were gaining new status and confidence in themselves.

The sophomore year is for most a year of growing, learning, and being patient. The year is a long one, but the time spent is guaranteed to help as time passes and the sophomores become juniors and seniors.

For many, the long-awaited sixteenth birthday takes place during the sophomore year. As man sophomores take to the road, the find the new freedom to be great, in without responsibilities.

As sophomores, the class of '85 i longer felt overwhelmed by the paspect of South Side and its twelfhundred students. They took a grepart in many sports and activities, well as helping to lead the way for the freshmen.

All in all, the sophomore year is bridge between being the youngest school and making one's way to being an upperclassman.

Computer Interest Grows

One aspect of the math department offered to students in any grade is the computer programming class. Here Patrick Holtzer, senior, and Brian Fuelling, juntor, use one of the computers

With computers becoming such as important part of our society, these classes can offer a strong basis for a future job.

Presently at South Side there are five terminals in the computer lab Four of these are Hewlett Packard and one is an Apple. This year ap proximately 50 students at South Side are involved in these classes.

Frosh ProvenWorth

The word "freshman" conjures up a very definite picture: small,confused, terrified, and somewhat out of it. Every one, at sometime during his or her first year in high school, has felt just like this.

Seniors seem to be giant tyrants, just waiting for the chance to step on, and squash, an unsuspecting freshman

The hallways, understood by all others, can become an endless maze full of "wrong rooms."

Yet sooner or later, the freshman class of 1983 began to relax and look around at all that South Side has to ofter Freshman athletes worked hand did very well, proving the potential for the years to come.

The freshman football team rack up five wins, as compared to only plosses, and took second place in a SAC Freshmen have as much schespirit as anyone else with the freshman cheerleaders helping gather support and enthusiasm the teams

For many, it was a year of setti priorities as students learned to jugle all the activities South Side has offer with the perhaps less excitibut very important matter of class and studying.

Years Remembered Through Memories

As it approaches the wee hours of he morning and we have just combleted the last deadline for this year, we begin to think about the purpose of this book

The hours spent pulling these ages together were more than hard work. Memories of friends, laughter, and pages that couldn't be found will emain with us forever. Such are the hings that made this book as special as as we hope it will be to you

This year has slipped by just as juickly as the others in the past and is those to come. Years from now when we are separated, there will some a time when you begin to reminisce about old friendships that seem to have disappeared. It is then, when you pull this dusty Totem from your shelf and begin to flip through the pages, that we hope we have capured memories special to each serson
